If you're looking for that extra boost of motivation, a bit more knowledge about your line of work, or you're simply in the mood for some "hardcore" geeky humor, devRant is the place to be if you're a developer. You can access everything this sort of Mecca for developers with the help of the two official mobile apps for both iOS and Android or, if you're keen on complaining about insert stuff-that-developers-usually-complain-about here from the comforts of your PC's desktop, then you'll surely like devRant unofficial UWP. Brings devRant to your computer's desktop wrapped within a modern package And, there are lots of things to like about this Microsoft Store unofficial devRant client. For starters, it brings all the functionality of the platform to your computer's desktop. You can access sections as Discussions, Weekly Rants, Stories, and Collabs, all while being able to upvote posts that appeal to you most and even customize your profile. There's also the so-called "Swag" section (or Swag Store as its officially called) that you've become accustomed to. If you've been using devRant for quite some while now, you'll be sure to notice that the app has three extra, self-explanatory sections: ++Supporters, Cartoons, and Podcasts. Straightforward functionality, decently customizable GUI, and stylish looks The second thing that's definitely worth appreciating is the app's appearance. The client boasts a modern GUI with stylish translucent elements that blur other desktop elements underneath the main window. Since we're on the subject, it's worth pointing out that the app comes with a few UI themes as well (white, gray, and two dark ones). Just like a modern app of this sort should, it also provides you with the possibility of changing the font's type and size. As mentioned before, this is a Microsoft Store app which means deploying it shouldn't be much of a challenge, since the installation procedure smoothly unfolds without requiring any type of intervention on your part. Vent developer-related frustrations with the help of this stylish devRant client Having said all that, if devRant is the place to be for all developers with a unique sense of humor then devRant unofficial UWP is definitely a must-have. The app in question is pretty much spot on. With its stylish looks and customizable UI,

"Looking for a great, fast and easy way to rant? If you're tired of writing long, boring rants just add some pictures, and you'll be able to share your thoughts and vent your frustrations without over two hours of typing!" "Weekly rants, weekly rants, We've got a weekly rant for you! " – By Philip P. Angelini

"DevRant is an app that I have been using for almost a year and a half. I love it for two reasons: this community; I'm personally an artist and DevRant is awesome for the many artists on the Discord server, so when it comes time to rant, they all scream together and it makes the rants even better." – Verified Moderator DevRant Discord "Excellent app, the articles that I have shared this app along with other community members on the discord server have received well, I find the app to be one of the most efficient ways for me to rant."

Developer notes: I wanted to bring this up because it's been on my mind for a very long time. DevRant is incredibly similar to DevTools, and I consider that a good thing. When the idea for DevTools was born, I promised my partner that I wouldn't build another shitty IDE. She never really believed me, to be honest, so I'm taking my promise seriously this time and going to continue DevRant exactly the way I started it. I'm much happier working in DevRant as a general purpose application for ranting. It has been in development for a little over a year, and it has seen some growth with even deeper Discord integration. DevTools is still a perfect option if you're more of a developer than a user and just want to get the job done. Even if you fall into that camp, I encourage you to check out my comparison at the bottom and see if it sounds like something you'd enjoy. Also, I am working on improved system support. It's a work in progress, so please be patient. Update: You can now share DevRant rants

What's New in the?

With the help of this stylish devRant client, vent developer-related frustrations with the help of this "unofficial" application. If you're a developer who finds a certain topic interesting, it'd be a waste not to support it. So, if you've ever wanted to "prove" you are an expert at solving your general developer's needs, this is the app for you. ◆ UI Designers: talk about windows management, your personal likes and dislikes, and decide which projects are your favorites among all. The "user" can also request for a new feature to be added. ◆ QA Engineers: talk about testing, bug fixing, and more. Discuss ways of improving testing. ◆ Product Managers: this section is for Product Managers. Talk about planning, organizing, and managing. ◆ DevOps Engineers: talk about deployments, upgrades, and upgrades. Discuss how the team works in achieving a given deployment goal. ◆ Algorithms & Data Scientists: if you're interested in algorithms and data science, get in contact with other developers regarding the topic at hand. ◆ Other: If you have a topic that you would like to discuss but is not mentioned in the app, there's a section for that too! The value of opinions. Whether you're looking for that extra boost of motivation, a bit more knowledge about your line of work, or you're simply in the mood for some "hardcore" geeky humor, devRant is the place to be if you're a developer.
