Dear sir, We have downloaded your product. And it has been given your instruction properly and it is working. You can contact to my email id that is Thank you for spending your valuable time to check out our product. Sincerely, Rahul yadav Please provide a download link/file with high download speed for our immediate use Thank you, Brigadaallosmagnificos720platino A: We need more information. You want to load your game from disc to a variable, move it to your destination and then remove the disc. I assume all of these are done from a folder and a shell script, so. 1) The first thing I notice is that Windows programs usually use the %TEMP% path in their drive letters. But when you look here you only have directory. Assuming you want to work like Windows programs, you should use %TEMP%/my_name_here. 2) From there you will need to setup for your specific application and your OS. Windows: Unix: For Windows you should be able to use WinRar or 7-zip. 3) Then you will be able to extract/copy the game data from the disc to the location of your choice. 4) Then go to the location where you extracted the game data and start the shell script to start your game. 5) Now you will need to copy your files back to the original location. This should be done through your data folder. 6) Finally, remove the original disc file using Windows explorer or the command line. EDIT: There are multiple solutions, 6d1f23a050
